Viticulture and Wine Making

Carrick Pinot Gris is grown at our Cairnmuir Road Vineyard.

We believe that the elements of a good Pinot Gris are distinctive flavours, with a richness and weight to the palate. This wine was whole bunch pressed and fermented using wild yeast to give complexity to the aromatics and also has had regular lees stirring. 40% of this wine was fermented in neutral French oak barrels, and aged on its lie for 6months.

Tasting Notes

A wonderful textural element on the palate that is reflective of an Alsatian style while retaining a clean acidity that is a hallmark of our windblown glacial soils on the Cairnmuir terraces in Bannockburn. Subtle blossom aromas with flavours of white nectarine close to the stone are evident. A lovely structural white wine that sits nicely in the glass, perfect as a late afternoon aperitif

Pair with Asian flavours and enjoy.
