

THREE GROSSET RIESLINGS... What's the difference?

Grosset Polish Hill 2014

Source: Grosset Polish Hill Vineyard

Site: Southern-most vineyard, Polish Hill River sub-region (460 metres)

Soil: 'Hard rock' site with silt and shallow shales over a thin crust of clay and gravel

Clone: One local and two German clones

Yield: 2 bottles per vine

Canopy: Low vigour, shoots avg. 0.7m hand-trained upright

Bunch size: Small berries and bunches, 100grams/bunch

Fruit colour: Thick skinned and yellow-tinged

Harvest date: Hand harvested Feb 18-Mar 2, 2014

Fermentation: Six ferments according to clone and vine age

Fruit flavours: Intense citrus and cool slate characters

Profile: Bone dry (zero fermentable sugar), intense and powerful with persistent length

Tasting/Assembling: 3 weeks, 2-3 hours tasting per day (mornings)

Awards: Langton Classification VI: Rated 'Exceptional'

Wine Ark: Australia's most collected white wine

Grosset Springvale 2014

Source: Grosset Springvale Vineyard

Site: North-eastern corner, Watervale sub-region at high altitude (460m)

Soil: 'Soft rock' site with thin topsoils of red loams interspersed with shale over limestone

Clone: Two German and one unknown

Yield: 2.5 bottles per vine

Canopy: Low-moderate vigour, shoots avg. 1m, trained upright

Bunch size: Compact moderate berries and bunches, 150g/bunch

Fruit colour: Lime green colour

Harvest date: Hand harvested Feb 16-Feb 28, 2014

Fermentation: Five ferments according to clone and vine age

Fruit flavours: Lime driven with mineral background

Profile: Bone dry (zero fermentable sugar), finely structured, vibrant and pure

Tasting/Assembling: 2 weeks

Awards: Langton Classification VI: Rated 'Outstanding'

Wine Ark: Australia's fifth most collected white wine

Grosset Alea 2014

Source: Grosset Alea Vineyard

Site: North-eastern extreme of Watervale sub-region at high altitude (460m)

Soil: Hard red rock (slate-like) with a poor orange/red loam for topsoil

Clone: One German (moderate vigour)

Yield: 2.5 bottles per vine

Canopy: Variable vigour due to rock, trained upright

Bunch size: Medium berries and bunches, 140g/bunch

Fruit colour: Yellow/green

Harvest date: Hand-harvested Feb 28-Mar 3, 2014

Fermentation: Two ferments according to harvest

Fruit flavours: Kaffir lime with hints of white flowers and herbs

Profile: Almost dry, underpinned by a linear acidity: fragrant, generous, succulent and long

Tasting/Assembling: 6 days

Awards: Not yet rated

Tasting Notes: This outstanding vintage surprises with voluminous lemon blossom aromas bursting from the glass. Then it's supple and round initially on the palate giving a delightful mouthfeel before the more characteristic power and tight, steely structure kicks in reminding you that this is Polish Hill. The primary flavours are more evident than is often the case with wonderfully pure lime juice and lemongrass before a finish that has a surprising softness. Certainly, there's refreshingly dry and vibrant cleansing acidity and some shaley minerality on a finish of remarkable persistence and length.

Ageing potential: 6-15 years, up to 20 years

Tasting Notes: The outstanding vintage is evident, too, in the Grosset Springvale which has impressive finesse and balance between intense primary fruit and schisty minerality. There are typically restrained aromatics, pure lime zest and lemon juice flavours with savoury overtones, taut structure and lively zingy acidity with some flinty notes to finish. This is a satisfying riesling the hallmarks of which are its generosity and harmony. It will give delight in the short term yet can be allowed to mature in a cool dark place.

Ageing potential: 5-15 years

Tasting Notes: While it's tricky to assert that the Grosset Alea has come of age in just three short vintages, a case could be made to justify such a claim. While having the advantage of the excellent harvest, this is a very smart, balanced riesling. It shows restraint and delicacy on the nose with some lime blossom notes, has silky texture that is initially soft, yet is tight and gently grippy in the mid-palate. There are positive lemon curd and lime zest flavours, a tight structure and lively softish cleansing acidity that is dry and zingy.

Ageing potential: First vintage 2012 so as yet unknown, however probably 15 years

Grosset Semillon Sauvignon Blanc 2014

Just 850 cases of this vintage have been released. While quite fine and showing distinctive sauvignon blanc character, it is in fact 75% Clare Valley semillon and 25% Adelaide Hills sauvignon blanc.

This is a thrilling incarnation of the Grosset classic, the re-invention of a popular style with an intensity, poise and finesse not seen in other unoaked versions of the blend. The 2014 continues a run of outstanding vintages for the wine as well as maintaining the style admirably. The increased percentage of semillon gives weight and definition without taming the primal sauvignon characters of the blend. There's white floral aromatics with some fresh herb notes, an intense, tight core of pure nectarine and white peach flavours giving a mid-palate tang, before a zesty finish of considerable length. Satisfying.

