

A special wine from a special place...& a very special family!

2013 THE WARK FAMILY SHIRAZ

"One of the reasons I love the Barossa...and why it can claim to be 'sacred Shiraz ground'...is the diversity of the vineyard landscape which allows us to produce so many different expressions of Shiraz from the one region. There's been plenty of talk in recent years about classifying the various sub regions and I have my own views as to which are the best for Shiraz. The deep sandy soils of Ebenezer, the dry, lean and cooler conditions of the Eden Valley and the low yielding, rocky brown soils of Stonewell to the east of Tanunda would be my picks if anyone was to ask.

The Wark Family have been growing Shiraz at Stonewell since they planted their vineyard on their farm in 1995. They grow fantastic Barossa Shiraz, and each vintage for the past few years we've been taking a bit more of their fruit. In 2013, we managed to get our hands on enough to release a wine made solely from their vineyard...a wine black in colour, brimming with plums, dark fruits, warm spices and ripe tannins. All the stuff you want to hear when people talk about top Barossa Shiraz.

With the Wark Family Shiraz in your glass, you've got a wine from a single vineyard in one of the best sub districts in the Valley, planted by the family's own hand and made by the crew at Teusner....sounds like a bloody good wine to me!!"
